

Shuttle Program Includes MTF

An announcement from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration in Washington yesterday confirmed an earlier commitment that the Mississippi Test Facility in Hancock County will be the testing site for engines used in the space shuttle program.

In response to a question from this paper, a top-level NASA official said yesterday that "as far as we can see there is no change in the commitment for MTF to test the orbiter engine for the space shuttle."

NASA announced that the space shuttle booster stage will be powered by solid rocket motors in a parallel burn configuration, and will be recoverable.

Requests for proposals for design and development of the space shuttle are expected to be issued to industry about March 17. The booster decision settles the principal question left open for further study at the time the decision to proceed with the development of the space shuttle was announced by President Nixon in January.

In announcing this decision, NASA administrator James C. Fletcher stated that it means that the space shuttle will cost less to develop than forecast in January. Development cost is now estimated at $5.15 billion compared to the early estimate of $5.5 billion. While this reduction is accompanied by some increase in the estimated cost per mission, the estimate of $10.5 million for the configuration selected is well within the acceptable range for economical use of the space shuttle system, Dr. Fletcher said.

NASA booster studies since January have shown that both solid and liquid propelled configurations would have been feasible from a technical point of view. The decision was based on the lowered cost and lower technical risk shown in the studies for the solid rocket system.

Industry's response to the request for the proposals for design and development of the space shuttle will be received by NASA late in the spring and selection of contractors is expected in the summer.

The space shuttle will be developed over the next six years. Horizontal test flights are to begin in 1978 and manned orbital test flights in 1979. The complete shuttle system is to be operational before 1980.

The space shuttle will be the first reusable space vehicle. It will be boosted into space through the simultaneous operation of its solid propellant booster engines and its orbiter stage high pressure liquid oxygen, liquid hydrogen main engines. The booster rockets will detach at an altitude of about 40 kilometers and descend into the ocean to be recovered and reused.

The orbiter, under its own power, will continue into low earth orbit. The shuttle will be able to place satellites in orbit, return satellites from orbit, permit in orbit repair and servicing of satellites, deliver propulsive stages and satellites to low earth orbit and conduct short duration science and applications missions with self-contained experiments in low earth orbits.

The shuttle orbiter stage will be a delta wing airplane-like vehicle that will be capable of landing on conventional runways. It will then be serviced and prepared for another mission. About the length of a DC-9 airplane, it will be designed for reuse more than 100 times. The orbiter will have a cargo compartment measuring about 60 feet in length and 15 feet in diameter. It will be able to place 65,000 pounds in a 100 nautical miles due east orbit. The orbiter will carry a four man crew - pilot, co-pilot and two specialists.

Overall management of the space shuttle program is in the headquarters office of manned space flight, which is responsible for the detailed assignment of responsibilities, basic performance requirements, control of major milestones and funding allocations to the various NASA field centers.

The Manned Space Craft Center (MSC) in Houston has program management responsibility for program control, overall systems engineering and systems integration, and overall responsibility and authority for definition of those elements of the total system which interact with other elements, such as total configuration and combined aerodynamic loads.

MSC is also responsible for the orbiter stage of the shuttle.

Kennedy Space Center will be responsible for design of launch and recovery facilities. Marshall Space Flight Center, Huntsville, Ala., is responsible for the development, production and delivery of the orbiter main engine, the solid booster, and the hydrogen-oxygen propellant tank. MSFC will also accomplish and/or manage certain shuttle tasks where the center has unique capabilities.

NASA-MTF in Hancock County is an element of MSFC and as such, will be the testing site for the engines developed and produced in Huntsville.

When asked how this program will compare in size and scope to the Apollo program in relation to MTF, NASA officials stated it will be smaller but Jackson M. Balch, MTF director, has said that the program will have a modest but significant economic effect on MTF.

Balch added, "It will be hard to project the exact number of personnel to be added at the test site as the design and development contracts have not been let, but as we see it now it will detail the employment of about 200 to 250 persons."

"As you may know, we have a variety of programs underway involving the use of manned and unmanned satellites. All of this is helping the rebirth of the Gulf Coast and the economy of this area," he concluded.

There are now about 900 persons engaged in environmental research work at MTF.

THE HOME of Mr. and Mrs. Neill Jeffrey in Waveland was the first stop yesterday on the Bay-Waveland Garden Club's Annual Spring Pilgrimage. A large crowd gathered about 10 a.m. to begin the pilgrimage tour.

Garden Club Hosts Spring Pilgrimage

"Southern Hospitality" at its warmest was in evidence in Bay St. Louis and Waveland Wednesday as ladies of the Bay-Waveland Garden Club and other pilgrimages hosts and housewives welcomed visitors to the area for the 23rd Annual Spring Pilgrimage.

Travelers from many parts of the country enjoyed a personal visit into four private homes, one private garden, one new modern school plant, the Diamondhead Country Club, and the Bay-Waveland Garden Center.

In the home of Mr. and Mrs. Neill Jeffrey, the guests were received by Mrs. George L. Souzeau, Jr., Garden Club president; Mrs. Gordon Gleim, first vice-president; and Mrs. C. Baxter, Pilgrimage Chairman who joined Mrs. Jeffrey and her other hostesses in welcoming the visitors. Here, in an atmosphere subtly blending the old and the new, coffee was served by the gracious hostesses to a steady stream of guests who then proceeded to admire the home of Coland Mrs. John R. Newkirk and the lovely garden of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Perillat.

After lunch was enjoyed in the gracious home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Elliott. At Diamondhead about 250 guests were served lunch in a delightfully different atmosphere of exotic beauty.

In the afternoon, the youthful voices of the St. Thomas Catholic Youth Organization of Long Beach accompanied on guitars by two St. Thomas juniors delighted the guests at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Robert W. Davis.

The staff and students at St. Stanislaus High School welcomed guests to an outstanding array of the newest and best in educational facilities.

The crowning event of the afternoon was the beautiful pink tea given at the Garden Center over which these past presidents presided: Mrs. Clarence Evans, Chairman for the tea; Mrs. Joseph E. Vignerie, Jr., Mrs. Reuben

Ten Named Hall Of Fame

Ten men were inducted into the St. Stanislaus Hall of Fame Saturday night before a banquet crowd of more than 400 alumni and friends of the 115 year-old school.

The seven living members of the Hall of Fame received a standing ovation as they entered the room, led by Brother Athanasius Mooney, S.C., who has spent more than 23 years at SSC as a teacher, prefect and steward of the dining.

The seven honorees were Brother Athanasius, Harry "Wop" Glover, Henry "Zuke" Bonner, John Scatfield, Marcell Schwartz, Col. Felix "Doc" Blanchard and Norbert Canovale.

Families and friends of the three deceased members, Forester Commager, Bishop Leo Fahy and Brother Peter were present as Jerry Harnig, master of ceremonies and Brother Pierre St. Pierre, president of SSC, presented the awards. The achievements of each member were recounted with the aid of a slide presentation.

This was the first St. Stanislaus Hall of Fame, a project of the St. Stanislaus Alumni Association under the direction of Brother Aquila Gaudin, S.C.

Gray, Mrs. Ben Hille, Sr., Mrs. Waldo C. Otis, Mrs. Herbert Finlay, Jr., Mrs. W. W. Baltar, Jr., Mrs. C.R. Beyer, Mrs. Paul Miller, Mrs. H. D. Ogden, Jr., and Mrs. A. E. Volgh.

The setting for the tea was executed by Mrs. Augustus Elmer and Mrs. Dan M. Russell, Jr. The tea table set in the center of the room was covered by white organza with an underlay of pink. The centerpiece featured pink azaleas in a 3 tiered cut glass container on a silver base flanked by branched silver candelabra with pink tapers. One end of the table held the crystal punch bowl with pink punch and the other end the silver tea service. Other hostesses for this event were Mrs. Rene Delmontuzin, Jr., Mrs. Terry Malone, and Mrs. John Ison.

The center also featured a fascinating exhibit of rare dolls belonging to Mrs. A. F. Baumgartner and paintings by Miss Earle DeVries.

Public Invited Project Meeting

E.D. Kenna, Executive Director, Mississippi Council on the Aged, will be principal speaker at a meeting of the Area-wide Model Project for the Elderly March 22 at 1:30 p.m. Mrs. E. McDonald, local coordinator for the project has announced that the meeting is open to the public and urges all those interested in working as volunteers with the organization to attend. Mrs. Gwen Goldie, coordinator of the Area-wide Project will also discuss project aims and explain the many services planned for the elderly of the county.

Representatives of various civic and church organizations already active in this endeavor are asked to attend as well. Mrs. McDonald said. The meeting will be held in Virginia Hall, Christ Episcopal Church at 1125 South Beach, Bay St. Louis.

ROLAND WEEKS, JR.

Weeks Will Speak At Dinner

Roland Weeks, Jr., president and General Manager of the Daily Herald will give the keynote address at an inaugural dinner on Monday April 17 to kick-off observance of National Library Week, which is being celebrated nationwide from April 15 to April 22.

William Gaudet, of Waveland, who is chairman of National Library Week for Hancock County made the formal announcement concerning Mr. Weeks. Gaudet also revealed that the inaugural dinner would be held this year at Haverty's restaurant in Waveland. Last year the dinner was held at the Bay-Waveland Yacht Club.

In connection with the week-long celebration, Mrs. Marilyn Steganga, Assistant Coordinator for the City County Library in Bay St. Louis attended a special workshop session which was sponsored by the State Office's Committee under the chairmanship of Ralph Foster, Sr., of Jackson. It was decided at this workshop that this year's theme would be "Discover Libraries."

Upon her return from Jackson a special planning session was held in the Bay St. Louis library and was presided over by Mrs. Loly Nybo.

Farm Total Down In Census

Hancock county showed a total of 222 farms in the 1969 Census of Agriculture, according to figures released by the U.S. Department of Commerce's Bureau of the Census, a part of the Department's Social and Economic Statistics Administration (SESA).

In the last previous Census of Agriculture (1964) the number of farms reported in the county was 471.

Of the county's total farms in 1969, 65 are reported as selling $2,500 or more of agricultural products in the year, as compared with 77 in 1964.

The report also shows average farm size in the county was 151.4 acres, and average value of these farms (land and buildings) was $47,865.

Other figures from the report are:

1. Value of all farm products sold in 1969, $221,648; in 1964, $936,115.
2. Value of all crops sold in 1969, $63,109; in 1964, $317,474.
3. Value of all livestock, poultry, and their products sold in 1969, $67,515; in 1964, $487,603.

Reported for the first time in an agricultural census is information on the extent to which the corporate structure is being used by operators of farms from which agricultural products totaling $2,500 and over were sold. Including family farms using this type of business structure, none of the county's $2,500-and-over farms are incorporated.

LITANY SERVICE
Christ Episcopal Church will conduct Litany Service at 8 o'clock this evening. Sermon will be delivered by the Rev. William J. Gould, rector. St. John's Episcopal Church, Mobile.

A covered dish dinner will be served in Virginia Hall following the service.

Michael Haas, attorney for Breland, appeared before a county supervisors' meeting Monday to present documents which Haas said attested to the solvency of Parliament Insurance Co., bonding agent for Breland.

Haas submitted letters from the company's president, J. M. Marengo, and its vice president, J. M. Marengo, Jr., to the board.

Haas said he had talked with Maurice Black in the attorney general's office concerning the company, as well as Mrs. Gandy and had received the submitted letter from the latter expressing approval of the bond.

Haas was accompanied by E. Moore raised the question of the company's validity when it was discovered that Parliament is not licensed, or admitted, in the state of Mississippi. Kollar said that Moore assured him that there was no question of the solvency of the company nor of the ability of the contractor in this particular situation, only that the company was not licensed.

J. Marengo, local insurance agent who had co-signed the bond as required for an unlicensed company.

Kollar further stated that Moore was referring the matter to the attorney general for an opinion and that the board attorney would be informed as soon as a decision was reached.

Kollar expressed the opinion that such a letter would be superfluous as the board, he said, had already shown its approval by signing the contract and asked if the board wanted to go into executive session "to get it all worked out right now." On a motion by Ladner, seconded by Travira, the board went into executive session.

Dr. M. L. Dodson, a partner in Breland Construction Co., told the board that he was "frustrated and aggravated" by the delay and that he had gone to some expense to get the problem straightened out, only to find that there is still apparently a problem.

Following an executive session conference, the board agreed unanimously to write a letter to Moore in Jackson confirming the board's original approval of the company.

Beach Road Repair Delayed

'Irishmen' Prepare For St. Pat's Parade

Throughout the entire United States, including Alaska and Hawaii, this coming Saturday simply is Saturday March 18th, but in the Gulf Coast city of Waveland the day is officially St. Patrick's Day, and on that day the Waveland Civic Association takes over to present a hodge-podge parade of fun and frolic.

The Civic association has the right to call it St. Patrick's Day because Garfield Lader, who has been mayor of the city for more than 30 years, has officially issued a proclamation declaring March 18th St. Patrick's Day within the entire city limits and on that day, the Smiths, the Bourgeois, the Villiers, the Ladners, the Williams, etc., have a right to put the "O" in front of their name.

This does not mean that the Civic association does not have some honest to goodness Irishmen in their membership. As a matter of fact no one can doubt the Irish back ground of the club's past president and this year's grand Marshal By gosh his name is Terry Feecey, not only on March 18th but for every day of the year.

To qualify himself as an Irishman, however, this year's president to claim his proper lineage has to take on the name of Alvin O'Bernard.

Like last year's parade which featured floats and bands from both Louisiana and Mississippi this year's parade, according to Bob Warner, parade coordinator, will feature floats, bands, and other types of entries from Playune, Miss., New Orleans, Belle Chasse, La., Gulfport, Biloxi and Bay St. Louis.

Prizes are given to winners in the various entry classification and this year, according to Archie Diebold, secretary, the club has made an extra effort to obtain better and more valuable trophies than have ever been presented in the past.

Getting a child ready for first grade begins years before that first week in September when he is six. Although age is considered by the lawmakers of most states as the best overall measure of readiness for school, there are always wide differences among children in physical growth and intellectual and social development. Giving a child a rich and understanding family life with gradually increasing responsibilities is very important in preparing him for school life. In addition, there are numerous other things to consider which can help a child enjoy school and adjust to school life more readily.

Before entering school every child should have a physical examination with special attention to eyes, ears, and teeth. He should have all recommended shots either at a doctor's office or at the health department. Special attention should be given to any physical, mental, or emotional handicaps, as these can be treated more easily if they are recognized early.

Learning how to take care of his possessions and how to dress himself can be very important to a child. He will find school life much easier if he already knows how to listen to and follow instructions and if he has been encouraged to observe and ask questions about things in his world, including his community, books, and his own body. In the community, there are a number of nursery schools and kindergartens, including a Head Start program, which can help prepare a child for school, especially in getting a child accustomed to being away from his mother and working with a group of other children. For parents who for various reasons feel that they would rather not enroll their children in a regular preschool program there are other opportunities to introduce children to a teacher and group activities. These include Sunday schools, the library story hour, and exchanging baby sitting with a neighbor from time to time.

Most children will be much more enthusiastic and less anxious about beginning school if they have visited the school several times, have met their teacher if possible, and if they know about such important details as where the bathroom is, where they are to keep their personal belongings, and how to get to and from school easily, including crossing streets with traffic lights or riding the school bus. Parents should be sure to obtain birth and immunization certificates and complete school registration forms well in advance. A little thoughtful planning can go a long way toward helping a child with a pleasant beginning to a rewarding school experience. Next-Determining perceptual readiness for school.

Books Needed For Festival

Mrs. Percy Sandel, chairman of the Books and Records booth for Christ Episcopal's upcoming Spring Festival is asking for donations of new or used books and records for the booth.

Mrs. Sandel said that any and all kinds of books and records will be gratefully received for resale at the Festival, slated for April 22 at Christ Episcopal Day School in Bay St. Louis. There is always a demand, she said, for National Geographic as well as comic books.

Those wishing to donate items may call the following numbers: In Pass Christian, 453-4939; in Long Beach, 453-4939; in Gulfport, 563-5392; in Bay St. Louis, 467-9435.

Those wishing to donate items may call the following numbers:

A pickup service for items can be arranged at the donor's convenience, she added.

Three Coast Episcopal High School students will attend the Science and Humanities Symposium at the University of Mississippi, March 16-18. Attending will be Bruce Luck and Allen King, both of Pass Christian, and Amy Angel of Gulfport. Mrs. Samuel McConkey of Long Beach, science teacher at Coast Episcopal High, will accompany them. Mrs. Angel will present a paper on biology.

Mrs. Angel, daughter of Dr. Charles Angel, 1217 Cabill Dr., has been named to attend the National Junior Science and Humanities Symposium April 22-24 in Durham, North Carolina, on the basis of the paper she entered in the United States Army sponsored program. Her paper is entitled "Anatomical of the Circulatory System."

Five other Mississippi students will attend the meeting with her, participating with some 300 other students, teachers, and school administrators from all over the United States. Miss Priscilla Reeves will accompany the Mississippi students to Durham.

Colling's Corner

By E.S. Colling

City-County Library Writer

One of the most unusual and amazing things that ever happened in Mississippi—or for that matter in the whole country—was the revolt by Jones county against the Confederate government during the Civil War. Your Public Library has recently acquired a new book on "The Free State of Jones" which gives many surprising details of this "mini-Confederacy."

It all began in 1860 when the citizens of Jones county elected overwhelmingly an "Anti-Secessionist" to the convention in Jackson to determine if Mississippi would vote to leave the Union. Some say the delegate became confused, but whatever the reason, he voted with the secessionists instead of against them. When the battle broke out, the delegate, a planter, broke out into a panic and fled to Jones County. The delegate was hanged in effigy and didn't dare return to his home until after the war.

At any rate, Mississippi seceded with twelve other southern states and the Civil War began. Though the people grumbled, a surprisingly large number of men were recruited for the Confederate army in Jones county. Then a tidal wave of new residents moved in—gamblers, preachers, laborers, but mostly deserters from the Confederate army, attached by the extensive and almost impenetrable swamps which comprised most of the county, and in one year the population rose from 3300 to (it is said) some 20,000, and the people of Jones decided to do something about it. So they organized their own independent government and proclaimed themselves "The Free State of Jones"—at least, that is one version that has come down to us, but as their were newspapers in the county at that time and most of the old records have been destroyed, there is no way of verifying it.

But we do know that late in '62, after the passage in Richmond of the so-called Twenty Slave Law, deserting became a way of life in the Confederate armies, especially among the troops recruited from Jones County. Soon the swamps around Ellaville were well populated by them and then the notorious "New Knight Company" made its appearance.

These irregulars from the swamp, all of them deserters, banded together and elected Newton Knight, one of their number, Captain of the troop. They were only a handful, never exceeding 125 in number, and they were surrounded by regular Confederate units. Their first concern of course was to get in touch with the Union army, and to this end a delegation got through the Confederate lines to Memphis and were sent on from there to the Federal authorities.

Knights' deserters were in a good position. They lived in caves and improvised shelters on an island at the edge of Leaf River, surrounded by deep swamps. There were plenty of wild turkeys and deer for food; when they needed additional supplies they raided a Confederate outpost on the home of a Confederate supporter in the town. Ammunition was also easily obtained from the enemy. There were frequent skirmishes and the constant danger of pot-shooting along the roads all through '63 and into the next year; the Confederates during this period never seemed to consider the situation worthy of a strong effort to exterminate Knight's band and the people of Jones county were content to let well enough alone. Then in '64 the opposition became more determined and several sharp engagements ensued, which will be described in our next column.

Supervisors Approve EDA Claims Docket

Hancock County supervisors were told at a meeting Monday that the Port and Harbor Commission has been put on notice by Universal Tank and Iron Works, Inc. as to expenses incurred by the company as a result of delay in completion of the tank foundation at the industrial park.

The notice came in the form of a resolution by the commission asking for approval of an EDA claims docket covering installation of an elevated water tank at the Port and Harbor. Supervisors ratified the above resolution as well as another requesting a requisition of $300,000 in an interim loan from Hancock Bank on another Port and Harbor development project. The Port and Harbor resolution stated that to date $1,780,231 had been expended through EDA funding on this project.

HOMESTEAD EXEMPTION
April 1 is the deadline to file for homestead exemption. Tax Assessor-Collector George Helmsman stated to date over 1,000 County homeowners have failed to apply for the exemption; he is asking that they do so as early as possible.

All applicants, Mr. Helmsman added, must bring their vehicle license tag numbers and those filing for the first time must bring their warranty deeds and tag numbers.

In another matter, Dr. Michael Smith, Port and Harbor Director, told the board that a delay of about six weeks would be incurred if the board advertised for bids for plumbing work on the new P & H office building. Smith said that advertising costs plus an additional month's rent at the present location would run the overall cost of the move considerably higher than that of the previous low bid of $740 to do the plumbing work.

Board president Dolph Kellar asked supervisors to reconsider their original decision to advertise. A motion by heat one supervisor Jerry Ladner to advertise died for lack of a second. A second motion authorizing the work on an emergency basis won favorable votes from James Travira and H. (Bully) Zeiglarling, with negative votes from Ladner and Peterson. Kellar broke the tie with a favorable vote.

Bids were opened for renovation work on the Agriculture Building to accommodate the food stamp program. Of three contractors bidding, James Rohr was apparent low bidder with $7,500. Charles Johnson submitted a base bid of $14,761, with an alternate of $4,467, and Terry Feeney bid $18,000 with an alternate of $6,000.

The State Forestry Commission agent told supervisors that about 10 of the county dumping areas were in "terminal condition" and should be attended to immediately. He

Changes Needed Now

Two basic priorities in any community are police and fire protection. However, in Bay St. Louis this does not seem to be the case.

The fire department is sadly lacking in the leadership necessary to adequately prevent and control fire damage. In one recent fire, the necessary tool needed to open the hydrant was frozen in one position and Commissioner Andre Arceneaux had to retrieve one from his automobile. What would have happened if Arceneaux had not been at the fire? Perhaps, the chief could have corrected the situation; however, he did not arrive at the scene of the fire until it was well under control.

At this same fire, the police chief, who should have been directing traffic and preventing curiosity-seekers from interfering with the firemen, was himself fighting the fire. Again, knowledge of a policeman's role in an emergency situation and definitive leadership was lacking.

This is not the first time this paper has asked for a review of the police and fire departments. Again, we ask that Mayor Carver seriously study and consider the deficiencies existing in these two vital agencies.

No Gas Tax Increase... This Year

A symbolic sign of relief could be heard throughout south Mississippi last Thursday when the House defeated the bill to increase the gasoline tax by one cent.

Hancock County is already overburdened with a tremendous gasoline tax and many local people drive to Hancock County and to Louisiana to purchase gasoline.

Governor Waller is correct in saying that this highway system and has made five recommendations:

1. Revise the formula for distribution of highway funds in order to assure distribution in a manner best fitted to meet the greatest need.
2. Revise the formula for distribution of state funds to the counties to assure equitable distribution.
3. Give the State Highway Commission responsibility for selecting, developing and maintaining the mileage on the state highway system. First priority should be given to those highways which, on a traffic count basis, advance or serve the economy of the state.
4. Return highways taken off the state highway system to county jurisdiction and provide that these highways be included on the State Aid highway system when they meet the criteria for the system. Give the State Highway Commission final responsibility for approving routes on the State Aid System.
5. Require roads under the sole jurisdiction of the counties to be administered under a county board-manager plan.

These are excellent recommendations and should be seriously considered by the Governor before he recommends another increase. It seems as though the new trend is to "tax now and think later."

90-Day News Moratorium

A psychiatrist told a group of news people this week in White Plains, N. Y., that he had interviewed 40 skyjackers and found that they had read news stories about previous skyjackings and it had played a role in their attempt. Therefore, he concluded, news media should impose a 90-day moratorium on such stories.

Other well-intentioned but misguided people have made this suggestion with respect to other news stories. Don't report stories of race riots because it gives others similar ideas; stories of murder, arson, suicide, bank robberies, etc., are supposed to induce others to do the same.

One could also suggest that newspapers shouldn't report the action of the New York legislature in passing an income tax measure or a higher sales tax because it might give legislators in Connecticut and New Jersey similar ideas.

No one disputes that some minds are pushed to violent action by reading about violence, but a 90-day moratorium won't cure that. Newspapers are produced to inform people about what is going on in the world around them. Shielding them from the violent actions that surround them would solve nothing.

Legislative Report

by EARL "BUCK" LADNER
STATE REPRESENTATIVE
HANCOCK COUNTY

On Thursday, March 9, House Bill 574 was defeated on the floor of the House of Representatives. This bill was defeated by 12 votes. If approved it would have added a one cent per gallon tax on gasoline in the state of Mississippi.

This past weekend the House Penitentiary Committee took a trip to the Mississippi State Penitentiary at Parchman. My primary job was to check on prison security and inmate appeal. I was very disturbed to find that the security in certain areas of our state penitentiary was at a minimum. I hope to return to Parchman within the next few weeks and make a more extensive investigation as to which time I will discuss my findings to the House Committee and to the public.

House Bill 584 is now on the House calendar. This bill will amend Section 4106-84 Code of 1942 to increase the annual salary of the members of the Board of Supervisors by 10%.

Letters to the editor are always welcome. They should be on pertinent topics, in good taste and limited to 300 words. The Sea Coast Echo requires that each letter be properly signed by the writer before it will be considered for publication. No letters unsigned or containing pseudonyms will be published.

The writing of this letter has been brought about by the fact that our county school system is being "degraded" and demoralized by self-centered, egotistical politicians and political appointees who regard the welfare of our children, and instead, squabble among themselves. I would remind these officials that the positions they now hold were created by the people, to serve the people. Instead, we have politicians and appointees who seek only to better themselves with complete disregard to the academic well-being of our children.

In our present County school system, we have a principal at Hancock North Central who, in less than one school year, has completely demoralized teachers and morale among students and teachers alike.

What teacher could continue to give his or her best with the threat or intimidation of dismissal hanging over their head?

In our present principal we have a man who refuses to meet with parents, one who canceled the last Parents-Teachers meeting because he was unwilling to discuss at an open meeting, the problems of our school. A man who even refuses to live in our County. A man who is too timid to recognize the fact that he is being used and will eventually get the ax.

Being the parent of five school age children who attend Hancock North Central, I feel justified in writing this. I am tired of hearing the lies we have heard for so many years.

We have lost good school administrators and teachers in the past and the same thing is about to happen again. I say, there are times when there is reason for discharge, but make that reason incompetency, not just selfish motive for individual gain.

If you love your children as I do mine, then speak out now. Do not be afraid to leave the group known as the silent majority. Band together now to help your child's future. Call our Superintendent of Education and Hancock North Central Principal and not ask, but demand, that our children be spared from further political abuse.

ROBERT LYONS

I want to express my deep appreciation to all the wonderful people of Hancock County who have been so kind and helpful to me. First, to Mayor Warren Carver who nominated me for the National Humanitarian Award, and to the City of Bay St. Louis for giving me the opportunity to win it, to the Members of the Board of Supervisors, The Jaycees, the Veterans and Civic Association, local merchants, churches and community organizations, St. Augustine's Seminary and to the many many individual citizens of Hancock County. I wish it was possible to thank each of you individually, and tell you what it has meant to me to have your support. It is my hope that the honor I have received will bring honor to the realization that all of our children deserve our love and compassion, no matter what their capabilities are.

ARNETT T. GILES

Dear Sir,
The President put a freeze on wages, they cannot go up over 5 percent. He should have put a freeze on taxes and insurance too. In some cases taxes went up over 50 percent. We people who have no homestead exemption on our homes are really finding it rough to hold on to our property. Then if you send a child to school they act like you are an intruder and it is the worst thing in the world for you to do. You get cold looks and cold treatment, then they make it so rough on the child they drop out of school. I think in the high school there is a conspiracy on to see how many

That Hancock County was given a single honor with the recognition of Mrs. Arnette Giles as the Outstanding Volunteer of the Year. Don't know of anyone more deserving of this honor than Rev. and Mrs. Giles.

That perhaps a study should be made of this thing on the light at Second and Main Street - Particularly during peak school hours.

That the Jaycees are to be congratulated for their Mardi Gras parade. It was quite a success; let's all plan on more participation next year.

That the Bay St. Louis float in the Jaycee parade was most attractive. Hear the horses really enjoyed it! Also, that the person who stole the shrubs will give them T.L.C.

That out Beat 3 Supervisor, Oscar Peterson, has his crew out cleaning and fixing the North Beach road and the Sea Wall. Thank You!

That Bay St. Louis received national recognition for its annual clean-up campaign. Congratulations to all YOU citizens.

That those fire-works trailers parked on Highway 90 and Second Street really don't add to the beauty of our city. Would question the legality of them being there.

That two dumpsters have been placed, one at Highway 90 and the Beach, the other at Dumber Ave. and the Beach road. These are courtesy of our Beat 3 Supervisor. He hopes that they will be used.

That now is the time to clean debris from marshy areas of the beach front, hope the supervisors take advantage of the seasonal low tides and get the job done now.

The Test Site is once again getting new people. WELCOME to Bay St. Louis.

PREVENT FOREST FIRES

The last couple of fire seasons have been the best ever in Mississippi, but there are still too many uncontrolled forest fires. When our forests burn, the entire economy of the state suffers.

March and April are "high fire danger" months. Here are some suggestions that may help prevent fires from getting out of control.

Plan the use of fire - If you plan to burn a ditch bank, fence row or pile of debris, take the necessary precautions to prevent the fire from getting out of control. Have someone with you to help if needed. Never leave a fire unattended.

Keep your brush and weeds trimmed. People who don't take care of their brush and weeds are a fire hazard to themselves and their neighbors.

roads open so that fire control vehicles can get into your woods.

During the fire season, locate available fire control equipment that can be used in your area. This equipment should be in a convenient place so that it can be put to work immediately.

Post the local fire tower telephone number near your telephone and have the local fire department's telephone number (township, range and section) near the phone. This will help you locate the fire tower and the fire department in your area.

Let your neighbors know that you are protecting your timber land and ask for their cooperation.

Write people who don't take care of their brush and weeds and tell them that they are a fire hazard to themselves and their neighbors.

Questions and Answers

Q. I recently started a new job. Since I lost my original social security card several years ago, I showed my employer a metal plate that has my number on it. But my employer wouldn't accept the plate and insisted I get a duplicate card. Why wouldn't he just use the number shown on the plate?

A. The number on your metal plate could be wrong, so your employer would not accept it. If it was wrong, your earnings would be reported under a wrong number. Then if you or members of your family needed to apply for benefits, there could be some delay or difficulty in getting credit for the earnings because they had been incorrectly reported.

Births

Mr. and Mrs. Preston Norbert Maufrey announce the birth of their first child, a boy, Preston John, March 5 at Hancock General Hospital. He weighed seven pounds, eight and one-half ounces.

Mrs. Maufrey is the former, Clarence Hayward, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Hayward of Waveland. Mrs. Hazel Maufrey of Pascagoula and the late N.E. Maufrey are paternal grandparents.

Round the Kiln

By Claire Mitchell
Phone 467-7829

The Kiln Volunteer Fire Dept. is sponsoring a dance on Saturday March 18th at the Jordan River Shores Clubhouse to raise money to help pay for the fire truck which is now in use in this area. The public is invited to attend, and this is a worthy cause.

Annunciation Parish has set the dates of July 15th and 16th for the annual parish fair. Anyone interested in helping to make items for the fair is asked to contact Sister Daniel Elizabeth at 467-5894 or Father Julian Legere at 467-5800. Sister Daniel is having weekly meetings at different homes in the parish to help make items.

Annunciation Parish will have a two week Mission beginning on March 19th. On Sunday March 19th at 4 p.m. there will be a service, talk, and program at Annunciation Catholic Church in Kiln for all teenagers and young adults. The same program will be held on Sunday March 26th at 4 p.m. at Infant of Prague Church in White Cypress. From March 20th thru the 25th at 7 p.m., there will be an adult mission at Annunciation Church in Kiln. March 27th thru April 1st, the mission will be held at White Cypress Infant of Prague Church.

Thomas Jefferson

Personal Freedom of OPPORTUNITY
A prominent citizen of a southwestern metropolitan city recently contributed $1 million to a new 300-bed hospital. When asked how he felt to have been so successful in life, he summed up the reason very well in these six points:
1. Having been born in a country that has provided its citizens with absolute personal freedom of opportunity to engage in any business or profession and have full protection of the law in any gains resulting therefrom.
2. Having parents who had the old fashion concept that opportunities in life are created by hard work and right living.
3. The necessity to start work at an early age created a desire to achieve and make work both a pleasure and a recreation.
4. A patient and understanding wife who has provided me with a happy home environment and who has been the chief architect in the rearing of our children.
5. An abundance of friends, people of good will and influence, who have helped me every time I needed a job, recommendation, or a loan.
6. And MOST important of all, the recognition early in life that only God could give man the confidence to achieve and the courage to overcome the problems and difficulties that beset all of us.

LIBRARY DINNER...

projects Chairman for the City-County Library.

At this meeting it was decided that special events would be held in the public libraries in Bay St. Louis and Waveland and through increased utilization of the Bookmobile. Throughout Hancock County, Mrs. Nybo said, there will be displays in banks, schools and other central locations. In addition, a slide presentation will be made available to be shown at various locations throughout the week.

In outlining the various projects, Chairman Gaudet said Mrs. David Johnston had been named Chairman of all the dinner arrangements and Mrs. William R. Lamb of the Gulf National Bank was named Tickets Chairman.

Principal object of the week long celebration, Gaudet said, is for everyone to discover libraries as the places to go for fun and facts.

"Libraries are more vital today than ever before," Gaudet continued and added: "In today's fast changing world, no one ever completes his education. The library with its books, pamphlets and business data, can help everyone keep his education up to date."

Area Ecology Center Opens In Bay St. Louis

A group of eleven people met recently in Bay St. Louis for the purpose of organizing an ecology center. The center will be a focal point for co-operative activities related to conducting daily affairs with responsibility and concern for the environment.

The center will collect and distribute information on ecology and will have a hot line for people seeking information or wishing to give it.

Recycling of all types of glass, cans and paper will be a project of the organization and a telephone trading post will be established to make contact between people wishing to borrow or lend rarely used equipment, share garden space or trade items.

The center will have such events as group quantity buying, canning parties, clean-up projects.

The group will eventually become involved in local environmental issues but doesn't want to evolve into a small pressure group. They want to represent themselves as concerned citizens honestly looking for answers and will begin by trying to define the questions.

The response has been good but many people don't see the need for such a center in a small town where there are no big industries. The ecology group feels that preventive medicine is the best kind, and that this area, being a sea coast with many bays, bayous and marshlands is unique and especially worthy of protection. Those buying clean glass, tin and aluminum, cardboard, and magazines and newspapers or an area which could be used for storage of these recyclables is asked to please contact Jean Edwards at 467-3519. Anyone discarding material which could be composted is also asked to call to have it picked up.

Everyone is asked to join or participate in some way.

Those attending the meeting were: Mr. and Mrs. Ian Dorton; Mrs. Bob Getman; Brother James, St. Augustine's Seminary; Mr. and Mrs. Danny Penton; Rhonda Stevens; and Sandra Brett.

Led by David Burgess, senior vice-commander, the group will include M.F. Fuvils, junior vice-commander; Horace Cupid Jr., state adjutant quartermaster; and Gordon Estes, chief of staff, Department of Mississippi.

Gulfport Post 2539 and Pascagoula Post 3373 will receive one each of two state-level teams at 10 a.m. on Saturday at the post home. On arrival, the state officers will be met by the post commanders Arthur Triplett and Maurice D. Mayers respectively.

Aiming to recruit as many new members as possible and reinstate any down-lagging old members prior to the end of this month, the state delegation hopes to lend effectiveness to local posts and district officials in their individual membership drives.

In addition to its extensive activities in the field of veterans affairs, the VFW post operates several community activity programs including Americanism, Loyalty, Safety and Voice of Democracy.

GARBAGE COLLECTION

Garbage pickup on Saturdays in Bay St. Louis has been discontinued as of this date, says the city's sanitation department. Monday and Tuesday pickups will remain the same and other pickups will be on Thursday and Friday. Trash pickups from business establishments will be made on Wednesdays.

Boosters Face Sideliners In Basketball Competition

Friendly competition is the keynote to the basketball game which features the best players in the St. Stanislaus Sideline Club and their opponents, the Bay High Booster Club. The game will be played in the St. Stanislaus gym on Thursday, March 23.

This annual event has become the highlight of the basketball season. Started two years ago, the game has proved entertaining for both players and fans. The Sideline Club has won the last two contests.

Featured in the game will be such Sideline Club stars as Larry Favre, Jr., Thomas Godwin, the Strong brothers, Donald, Mike and Jimmy, Coach Barry Jones, Coach Robert Cuccaro, Ronnie Favre to mention a few. The Booster Club stars have been J. E. Lolacano, James Glin, "Pete" Peterson, Billy Rhodes, W.

Allison, and others.

The purpose of the game from a financial point is to aid the athletic programs at both schools. This purpose is identical with the aims of both of these clubs. Each club helps to support the athletic program of its respective school in the manner deemed best by the school administration. Much has been gained by the schools because of the existence of these interested men.

Preceding the main feature will be a girls' contest which begins at 7 p.m. This contest, too, will feature many former stars so prominent in girls' competition here and along the coast. Both of these girls' teams are part of an independent state-wide league and will later compete for the girls' state championship. All members of both clubs have tickets for this coming

Jackson Orchestra To Perform In Picayune

The Jackson Symphony Orchestra will present a pops concert in Picayune on March 17, 1972 under the sponsorship of the Civic Woman's Club. The evening performance will begin at 7:15 in the Picayune Memorial High School Auditorium and tickets at $2.50 for adults and $1.00 for students will be available at the door.

The orchestra's program for the Picayune concert will include selections from West Side Story, a medley of Jerome Kern melodies, Theme from Love Story, Going out of My Head, and many other popular favorites.

Louis Davitt, considered one of the nation's most dynamic young conductors, is in his seventh season with the Jackson Symphony Orchestra. Under his leadership, the orchestra has reached maturity by gaining metropolitan status and recognition as one of the top 25 in the country.

Jeff Ethridge, who will perform the 1st Movement of Bachmanoff's Concerto no. 2 is at the age of 19 one of Mississippi's fine young artists with the potential of making it to the top of the concert pianist music world.

The Jackson Symphony Orchestra's concert in Picayune is made possible through the touring program of the Mississippi Arts Commission and the National Endowment for the Arts in Washington, D. C., a federal agency.

Brass Rubbings: A Bit Of English History

By Adore Shortle
Echo staff writer

An exhibit of ancient English brass rubbings, the first of its kind in the United States, is being shown at the Ramada Inn in Waveland, March 25 and 26. The rubbings are taken from 14th and 15th century brass plates found in churches throughout the English countryside. Those to be exhibited were from Studio 69 in Suffolk, England.

Each with the floor of the nave or on the wall over the location where the person has been buried.

They were designed as memorials to the dead and first appeared in England during the early part of the 13th century. The plates were usually designed for persons of note or members of wealthy families and the artists brought generally from France or Cologne, Germany as the more skilled artists in the 14th and 15th centuries were found on the continent.

The earliest English brass still in existence is of Sir John D'Auberon, Stoke D'Auberon, Surrey, which was put down in 1277. Until the 14th century the brasses commemorated knights, their ladies and ecclesiastics. The effigies were nearly life-size and represented as recumbent, often with an heraldic animal lying against the feet.

Estimates on the total number of brasses laid down in England vary widely, but there is some agreement that the number might be as great as 10,000. The number remaining today has been greatly reduced through that, destruction of old churches in wars, and following the reign of Henry VIII. That monarch, having effected the final break with the Roman Catholic Church in Rome, sent emissaries throughout the English countryside to destroy all the relics they could find which were dedicated to members of the church and in particular, to St. Thomas of Canterbury, more familiarly known as Becket.

Today, of the approximately 1,000 brasses left only about six hundred are in excellent condition, and fewer than that suitable for rubbings.

The art of brass rubbing has only in recent years become a popular and sought-after field. The rubbing is made by laying a special "canvas" or paper, over the brass which is rendered in bas-relief and the whole rubbed carefully with wet ball of special wax. Considerable skill and patience is required to scratch the figure in this manner and the process arduous and time consuming.

Brian Cooper, Studio 69 owner, has been executing brass rubbings since he was a boy and is now considered one of the foremost authorities of the process in England.

Each of the brass rubbings coming from Studio 69 is an original, according to Dan Seely, exhibitor, as Studio artists painstakingly render each from the brass plate rather than making reproductions of rubbings at the Studio.

The brasses are absolutely irreplaceable and as the number diminishes through the years, the value of both brasses and rubbings rises accordingly.

The rubbings range in size from about four feet high to better than seven feet and are mounted on burlap covered boards or framed.

Exhibit Set For March 25, 26

Daniel Seely, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Seely of Waveland, will bring an exhibit of old English brass rubbings to the Ramada Inn in Waveland, March 25 and 26.

Seely is the United States and Canadian agent for Studio 69 located in Suffolk, England, which produces the rubbings of monumental brasses dating as far back as the 13th century.

The first of its kind in this country, the exhibit will also include an auction of the 30 rubbings that Seely is showing. The exhibit will open both days at 3 p.m. with a lecture and color slide presentation of the studio's artists at work and scenes of the various churches throughout the English countryside where the brasses are found.

An open auction will be held Sunday only, following the lecture at 3, but sealed bids will be accepted Saturday for those wishing to purchase rubbings but who cannot attend the Sunday event.

All of the rubbings handled by Studio 69 are originals and a timely illuminated certificate of authenticity is given each purchaser of a rubbing.

The brass rubbings are much sought after on the continent by collectors and individuals, and are equally well received in the Eastern United States. Those which Seely is exhibiting in Waveland this month, and in later exhibits in New Orleans and Jackson, will be the first shown in the Southern states.

All of the rubbings in this collection will be offered for sale at the auction.

MONUMENTAL brass rubbings such as the two pictured will be exhibited at the Ramada Inn in Waveland, March 25 and 26. Daniel Seely of New Orleans, the rubbings are taken of brasses found in English churches and date as far back as the 13th century. Left, a monumental brass of Dame Radcliffe Wingfield, dated 1601 was found in the Church of All Saints, Suffolk, England. At right, John Field, 16th century alderman and once Lord Mayor of London.

WORSHIP SERVICES

First Baptist Church, 141 Main Street, will conduct worship services at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. Sunday, March 19. Sunday School at 9:45 a.m. and University of Christian Life at 3 p.m. Joe Davis, associate pastor, will deliver the sermon at the morning and evening worship services.

Alton Hague, director of music and youth, will present a program of inspirational music. The public is invited.

Society of Christian Service, 274 The Main Street United Methodist Church met last Wednesday in the home of Mrs. Mary Marx with Mrs. Wallace Cheyfe, chairman, presiding.

Mrs. G. R. Pritchard and Mrs. Sam Whitfield conducted the program.

PTA Schedules Rummage Sale

The North Bay Elementary School PTA will hold a Rummage Sale every Saturday from 9 to 5 in the garage at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Favre, 320 Citizen Street (corner of Citizen and Old Spanish Trail). All proceeds will be used for this year's PTA project of buying athletic equipment for the school. Persons interested in donating rummage items should call Mrs. Paul Bourgeois, Jr., PTA President, at 467-7703.

At the regular March meeting, PTA members discussed plans for this year's fund-raising projects, including an initial rummage sale held March 4 at Valena C. Jones School. Billy Sills, North Bay Principal, announced that the school's Field Day will be Friday, April 21, with events beginning at 2:00 p.m. The PTA also planned a "bazaar and chicken dinner" in conjunction with this event. Serving on the Field Day Planning Committee are Mr. Chester Favre, Dinner Chairman; Mrs. William Breland, Fair Chairman; and Mr. William LeBlanc, Ticket Chairman. Other committee members include Mrs. Vic Powell, Mrs. Warren Buehler, Mrs. Robert Delcuse, Mrs. Chester Favre, Mrs. Max Wuesthoff, Mrs. Luke Selama, Mrs. Vernon Niven, and Mrs. Sam Favre. Refreshments for the March meeting were provided by Mrs. William Brown, Refreshment Chairman, and the fifth grade mothers.

Seafan Slipper

The chief cook can catch the fish right out of the freezer and bake them in the oven for 15 minutes. Pop the buns in the last few minutes to warm them. Some like tartar sauce and some like catsup on their sandwiches, and of course they're good as is, too!

While the fillets are baking, make carrot curls and, using canned fruit with diced apple or a combination of fresh fruit such as bananas, oranges, pears or pineapple, make the Seven Seas Fruitcup.

Seafan Slipper is delicious and truly fun to make. For each serving, beat or shake 1 cup of milk with 2 teaspoons of raspberry or strawberry jam, ice cream topping or thawed frozen berries. Add 2 or 3 drops of food coloring if you like, then top with whipped cream "see foam".

Last of all, the Anchor Cupcakes, which have been finished ahead of time and are all ready to serve.

ANCHOR CUPCAKES

Frost cupcakes with fluffy white frosting. Fill a decorating tube or an envelope with a tiny corner cut off with fluffy frosting of strawberry jam, ice cream topping or thawed frozen berries. Leave cupcakes in paper cups for easy handling.

Enjoy a Sailor's Supper soon at your house. It's so simple to do with Gorton's Superfish® fillets, fried, breaded cod in a shape resembling a fish, and the supper is nutritious, too!

Little Theatre Will Hold Variety Show

Proceeding the opening of its 1972 season, the Bay St. Louis Little Theatre will present the first fund-raising event in its history—a twenty-six year history—a sparkling variety show entitled "America On the Go". Directed by Pete Chapman, the entertainment will be presented on March 24 and 25 at 8:15 p.m., at the playhouse on Boardman Avenue.

Many performers of this area have contributed their talents to the program, the proceeds from which will be used for major repairs and additions to the quarter-of-a-century-old theatre building.

Among the cast of the show are such local favorites as the Bay Four & After Barbershop Quartet, Karen Compretta, Piccola Dietrich, Inez Favre, Joe Vignerie, Lili Kalmbach, Conrad Mautray, Doug Koger, Teddy Stechmayer, Andre Arceneaux, Gerald Gex, Bob Hubbard, and Cathy Carter. Their singing, dancing, and specialty numbers, plus a variety of other top quality acts, combine to form an array of talent seldom gathered on a stage in this community.

Seating in the theatre is limited to 150 at each performance. Tickets at $2.50 are now available in advance at de Montluzin Drug Store, the Sunshine Gift Shop in Bay St. Louis and at the Waveland Drug Store.

Guests last weekend of Mr. and Mrs. Lelwyn Nybo and family were her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Laffin and son, William Russell, of Vicksburg, Miss. By Mrs. Della Wendling Visiting Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Newman over the weekends were their daughters and their families of New Orleans, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Kessler and children and Mr. and Mrs. Larry Sterling and baby.

Belated birthday greetings are extended to Mrs. Betty Rose who had one last Saturday.

Bob and Harriet Reigher enjoyed having their daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Laney (Bonnie) Rhinehart and little daughter, Bonnie Ann of Texas for a short visit over the weekend.

Visiting in Waveland over the weekend were Mr. and Mrs. Joe Vilar, son Joseph and daughter Julie. They were guests of their mother and grandmother, Mrs. Hazel Vilar. Also it was Julie's fourteenth birthday and they brought the birthday cake and refreshments over to enjoy. Mr. and Mrs. Al Brumfield and sons Keith and Brett were also visiting Mrs. Brumfield. Mrs. Brumfield is the granddaughter of Mrs. Vilar. All are from New Orleans and St. Louis.

Nick and Dee Wendling celebrated their Anniversary and Dee's Birthday last weekend. Helping them to celebrate were Bob and Harriet Reigher.

Deepest sympathy is extended to the wife and family of the late Louis Jacobi.

Congratulations to Brother Mooney and to all the others who were chosen for the St. Louis Hall of Fame.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McCune of Cloverdale, Va. were visitors here several weeks ago as guests of their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Mac McCune and children. While here they enjoyed Waveland's Nerida parade.

Deepest sympathy is extended to the wife and family of the late Mr. Jasper Ladner of Delisle.

Mrs. Edward Heltmann Sr. of New Orleans is spending a while with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Allen.

Homemakers To Celebrate Anniversary

Edwardsville Extension Homemakers Club met last Tuesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Edna Poolson, Club president.

Mrs. H. W. Duke, Hancock Extension Homemakers Council president, discussed a get together to celebrate the Homemakers golden anniversary; she also announced the annual flower and vegetable show will be held April 21. All members were asked to participate.

Miss Dixie Parker, Extension Economist, read the new By-laws. Miss Parker, Mrs. Poolson and Mrs. H. W. Duke attended the sixth annual review of progress made in the 1.5 by '76 program in Jackson last week. Mrs. Poolson presented a program on health and safety in the home.

The April 4 meeting will be in the home of Mrs. Herman Holden.

The meeting closed with the thought for March, "To Act is easy; to think is hard."

Mrs. Norma Fuch, hostess for the social hour, was assisted by Mrs. Poolson, co-hostess.

Center Preparing For Data Buoy Unit

Preparation for instrumentation of the first General Dynamics design data buoy (EB-10) is now underway at the National Data Buoy Center (NDBC), Mississippi Test Facility (MTF).

The National Data Buoy Center (NDBC) is an agency of the National Ocean Survey, National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, Department of Commerce.

Utilizing the turbine tug Clermont, Captain Isadore Giveans commanded towing operations from DACO Industries, Biloxi, where the buoy was built, to the center.

DACO Industries, as the subcontractor to General Dynamics, will fabricate five additional buoys scheduled for delivery in time to be instrumented and deployed in the Gulf of Mexico prior to this year's hurricane season.

These six buoys with their power supplies, data processing and communications equipment are being furnished under contract by the Electrodynamic Division of General Dynamics, San Diego, California. The contract of $5.7 million provides for design work, the buoys themselves, a shore communication station, integration of the sensors with the buoys, and engineering support services.

The 40 foot diameter disc-hulled environmental buoy will be equipped to acquire, compute, store and relay surface data on wind speed and direction, barometric pressures, air temperatures, humidity, precipitation, wave action, solar radiation and surface water temperatures and subsurface data on water current speeds and direction and water salinity, pressures and temperatures.

To accomplish these tasks the buoy is equipped with beacon and satellite antenna, VHF transceivers, HF disc antenna, meteorological instrument packages installed at 10 and 30 foot height above the sea surface and oceanographic instrument packages at 12 locations on the mooring line, ranging in depth from 50 to 1500 feet.

Primary users of environmental data to be acquired by EB-10 during its initial operations include the National Weather Service and the National Meteorological Center. The U. S. Coast Guard Radio Station at Miami, Florida, will perform shore-side buoy interrogation tasks as directed by the Center and relay all computed and stored data to the MTF site for comprehensive analysis.

EB-10 will be deployed in the Gulf of Mexico this summer initiating a two year test and evaluation program and will be anchored in approximately 800 feet of water. The buoy will utilize two diesel generating units to provide power for its sensing devices, computers and radio transmitters. To preclude collision with ships at sea, the buoy is equipped with anti-collision lights and foghorns. James Winchester, Director, NDBC, welcomed the arrival of the buoy this week in ceremonies at MTF. R.V. Woodie, Program Manager of National Data Buoy Systems, General Dynamics, San Diego, California, and Henry Auter, Deputy Director of National Aeronautics and Space Administration, Mississippi Test Facility, also participated.

Mr. Woodie said his company was proud to be associated with the National Data Buoy Program. He explained the reason for the three flags atop the buoy units trip from DACO Industries to MTF. The American flag, he said, was to mark the national nature of the buoy program. The Mississippi flag was, of course, to mark the state's participation in the National Data Buoy Program. The California flag identified General Dynamics, San Diego, California, as the birthplace of the buoy itself.

USM ALUMNI
Hancock County Chapter of University of Southern Mississippi Alumni Association will celebrate the 62nd Anniversary of the school's founding with a "Dutch Treat" dinner. The dinner will be held March 23 at 7:30 p. m. at Seaford's Wheel Inn in Bay St. Louis. All USM alumni are invited to attend.

A 14-year high of 284,000 guaranteed home loans was recorded by the Veterans Administration in 1971. It was announced recently.

In a crash program between June and early October last year, VA opened 27 hospital drug treatment centers, bringing the total to 32.

Airfreight-No Slow Boat To China

Most of you don't know it yet, but there's an airfreight in your future (and present, too) — to paraphrase a vintage slogan.

Importance of the airfreight was pointed up dramatically in connection with President Nixon's history making visit to mainland China where the world had virtually instant news coverage via an earth station located in Peking that relayed color telecasts and press reports to a communications satellite above the Pacific.

In advance of President Nixon's arrival, a Lockheed Hercules airfreighter sped the 25 tons of earth station and related equipment from California to mainland China in time to set up and fully test the sensitive apparatus.

This was the first time a commercial U.S. airfreighter flew to mainland China in more than 20 years, but American built aerial cargo carriers have long been familiar sights at just about every other location on earth that has the semblance of a runway.

They airlift freight not only between cities of the world, but also carry cargoes to areas inaccessible to other modern modes of transportation — such as to construction camps in the Amazon jungle, scientific research bases in Antarctica, mountain rimmed mining regions in Africa, winter-freeze isolated communities in the Arctic, and oil fields deep in the Sahara desert.

And also much faster. While they carry all kinds and sizes of more conventional payloads, the forte of airfreighters is the speed necessary for perishable and high priority cargoes. These have included satellites flown cross-country to a Pacific coast launching pad, emergency food and medical supplies to victims of war, earthquakes, and floods in Asia, Africa, and South America, and even — on one flight — 23 tons of fresh Christmas cake from Milan across the Atlantic.

What does the airfreight future look like? Promising, the experts say.

The annual world air freight total will more than double every five years, according to forecasts of Lockheed research engineers. From a level of 10.1 billion ton miles in 1970, it is predicted the totals will be 20.5 billion in 1975, 42.2 billion in 1980, and 87.7 billion ton miles in 1985.

And a good part of the payloads are and will be carried by U.S. built airfreighters (foreign sales of which, incidentally, greatly help the U.S. trade balance).

Through its advanced technology, the U.S. is the world leader in commercial aviation. It is important to keep it so. The upcoming growth of air freight via U.S. built carriers can help keep America in front.

Poisoning Child's Mind

"Your father is a mean, nasty man. Stay away from him or he will whip you with a great big strap."

Laura, recently divorced, kept drumming this warning into her five-year-old son. She had been given custody of the child at the time of the divorce, and she meant to tighten her grip on him by any and all means.

Actually, her ex-husband was devoted to the boy. When he found out about Laura's tactics, he haled her into court. The judge took the matter so seriously that he changed the custody order, transferring the boy from his mother to his father.

As a general rule, the law condemns efforts by one divorced parent to poison the mind of the child against the other. It condemns "implanting in his tender mind the seeds of hate and the cancerous beginnings of malice toward those whom he should cherish."

Likewise, the law frowns on the use of the child as a pawn in financial bargaining. For example:

A divorcee constantly belittled her ex-husband to their small daughter. But she also let him know that she would stop as soon as he agreed to a large cash settlement.

Again, a court denounced her

KANTCHA KETCHUM

By L. S. (Doc) Ellison

Reports on fishing not too good over the past weekend. Freshwater specks and other salt water fish were caught. Bass and perch fishing were off with only a few caught here and there. The waters in Jourdan River, Bayou La Croix and Rotten Bayou are terrible as well as all their tributaries.

Pearl River, Mulatto Bayou, Cross Bayou, etc. are still on the bad side. Muddy water everywhere. No hard crabs are being caught while soft crabs are out. Saw the first lights along the seaway over the weekend. Folks were just looking and investigating the possibility of getting a few soft crabs. They should be giving by now according to the old time crabs. Think the weather is still a little too cold for the crabs to shed. Warmer weather is needed for them.

A few more warm days and nights with no rain should help fishing a great deal, as well as crabs.

What some of our fishermen have been doing: Alden Mauffray and Kenneth McCarty caught a few perch and bass Sunday. By the hardest, they claimed.

Jerome Carver, one of our best fly fishermen reported catching a few bass during the week. Jerome has gone back to his old pastime.

John Scalfide, Jr. was down from Ole Miss. for a couple of days. Enjoyed some fly fishing with his Dad, John, Sr., Arthur Miller and Yours Truly. John should be back at Easter time. Fishing should be better then.

Charley Hill and his wife, Alvorne, are both ardent fishermen. They were telling us of the Rainbow Trout, white and black perch they catch up north. Their home is at Pearl River. "Down on the Bayou" where fishing is pretty good most of the time.

About a week ago Nickey Rauxet, Mickey Demoran and Pete Garcia caught 82 nice speckle at Telegraph Keys. Nickey said they were there then. Tried their luck at Chandeleau Island the past weekend. No report as yet.

Harry M. Brooks is a newcomer to Bay St. Louis. He is retired and expects to get his fill of fishing. Harry like myself was a longtime operator for 45 years. Has a home in Waveland. You'll find plenty fishing partners hereabout, Harry.

Pete Richardson, better known to his friends as "Peter Gum" does a lot of fishing. Said he has been making average catches lately.

Evelyn and Floyd Oller said they are going to give the fish a bad time from now on. Both love their fishing. They reside in Waveland.

Gerald Freeman is an expert soft crabber and flounder. Gerald said he is waiting to get his feet wet and catch some of the little darlings. Won't be too long we hope. You have a lot of friends waiting for the same thing.

Bill Griffith of Cedar Point and Don Baker both hunt and fish. They are going to have a shop where they can rebue and repair guns. This should be good news to local sportsmen. It will be on Boardman Avenue.

Read where Rep. William M. Colmer is planning to retire after 40 years as a U. S. Lawmaker. Bill is a well known name at Pascagoula and for years played golf with Senator Pat Harrison, Congressman Paul Maloney, of La., Bob Genin, C. C. McDonald and Yours Truly at the old Pine Hills Golf Course as well as other local golfers. Best of luck, Bill.

Joe Griffith, skipper of our local Sea Scout Ship, and his wife are real fishermen. Mrs. Griffith is one of our expert soft crabbers. You will see her out after them when the time gets right. Raring to go, she said.

A. D. (Bobby) Benvenuti also goes soft crabbing. Been at it a long time he said. Lives on Leopold St. right in the soft crabbing paradise.

Down from St. Louis for a couple of days were Bob and Neil Dahlstrom. They were mingling with their many friends. According to reports it seems like they are coming back to Bay St. Louis to live and go fishing. Good news, folks.

Ten men were inducted into the Saint Stanislaus Hall of Fame Saturday night at the Fontainebleau Motel on March 11 in New Orleans.

They were three deceased members and seven living members: Bro. Peter S. C. Mr. Foster Commagere, Bishop Leo Fahey, John "Baby Grand" Seafide, Col. Felix "Doc" Blanchard, Norbert Carnovale, Harry "Woody" Glover, Henry "Zeke" Bonham, and Athanasius. The affair appeared on television. They were a bunch of real sports in our way of thinking.

Best of luck is extended to E. V. "Gus" Alme who was elected president of the Sideline Club of St. Stanislaus. Gus is an all around sport.

Frank Trapani was strutting his stuff on the TV at the induction of members to the Hall of Fame. Frank is not much of a fisherman, but loves most sports. Sponsored a lot of bowling and soft-ball teams.

Heard from Dick Mestayer. He has been doing some fishing with his son in New Orleans. Works over that way.

Haverty's Restaurant and Bar and Clarisse's in Waveland were busy places Saturday night with folks out for a good time. Met a lot of friends at both places. Fishing was the main topic of conversation.

Since I-10 Highway has opened very little traffic is encountered on Old Highway 90. Still used by fishermen going out Pearl River way to fish, catch frogs, etc.

In compiling this 1972 Town and Country Review, the editorial staff, wish to congratulate the Avis Car Rental Agencies on the splendid service they are rendering the people of this section. We would also like to say that these folks really live up to the Avis slogan, "We try harder."

OFFICIAL PROCLAMATION

WHEREAS Friday, March 17, 1972 may be celebrated throughout the world as St. Patrick's Day, but

WHEREAS the Waveland Civic Association will parade on Saturday, March 18, at 2 p. m. in the town of Waveland

I, Garfield O'Laine, Mayor of the Town of Waveland, do hereby officially proclaim that March 18th of the year 1972 shall be set aside as a day to pay tribute to the memory of the immortal St. Patrick.

Also, as Mayor of the Town of Waveland, I officially invite all to visit our town and view the Civic Association's St. Patrick's Day Parade, starting at 2 p. m. Saturday March 18th, 1972.

The motto this year is "Have Fun and Frolic"

Garfield O'Laine, Mayor

Let an Electric Dishwasher Do your Dirty Work!

The task of washing dishes frequently is the only reward given to the person who has prepared a delicious meal. One solution to this shameful situation is an electric dishwasher—one of the greatest labor-saving appliances ever developed. Just put dirty dishes, glassware, silverware and cooking utensils in. Add soap powder and set the automatic rotation. Then join in the family's after dinner pleasantries.

Everything comes out clean, dry and sanitary. And it's all made possible by clean, flameless electric power. An electric dishwasher saves time and energy and keeps your pretty hands out of hot water!

Enjoy the economy of an automatic electric dishwasher. Next to an electric range, it's the cook's best friend!

Electricity — the cleanest energy you can use.

(This week's article is on the language department at Bay Senior High. It was researched and written by Dianne Raynard.)

There are two languages taught in this department: French I and II taught by Mrs. Emily deMontuzin and Spanish I and II taught by Mrs. Vanda Mae Ladner.

Mrs. deMontuzin feels that since she likes to teach French as well as French—the country as well as the language—Bay High is an excellent place to teach because anytime she has requested up to date language equipment, field trips, and slides and pictures of France, she has received complete cooperation.

French is considered an enrichment course. It enriches a student's life and adds to his cultural development.

Since travel abroad is becoming less and less expensive, Mrs. deMontuzin hopes that many of her pupils will visit France and that when they do, they will be more able to enjoy what they see because of having studied French at Bay Senior High School.

Mrs. Ladner thinks that the Bay Senior High School language laboratory ranks with the best of the schools along the coast. The laboratory has all the necessary equipment (tapes, records, slides, film, etc.) necessary to teach a foreign language.

Her Spanish students are required to make a project each year that exemplifies some phase or work of the people or country of the languages studied. This is a vital part of the course because the work requires a knowledge of the material.

Mrs. Ladner feels that students benefit from studying a foreign language because knowledge naturally brings about a better understanding of people of other countries.

A PLACE IN THE SUN is as good as any for polishing brass, especially when it's done painstakingly by hand as Edward Carver, above, does it. Fine brass and metal polishing is a specialty of Southwind Antiques, operated by Edward and his wife, Winnie. At the present, the Carvers handle mainly antique glass, bottles, china and some furniture but are planning to expand into larger furniture pieces or completion of another building behind the shop. Southwind Antiques is located on Clermont Blvd., Clermont Harbor and the phone number is 467-7249.
